

CLAIM AGAINST INUKSHUK WIRELESS PARTNERSHIP IS DISMISSED BY COURT

UBS continues its claims against Allstream and Rogers' subsidiaries

Toronto, Canada (May 13, 2008) - Unique Broadband Systems, Inc.'s ("UBS" - TSX Venture: UBS) wholly owned subsidiary, UBS Wireless Services Inc., ("UBS Wireless"), commenced litigation in April 2004 against Allstream and a current Rogers subsidiary, Microcell, and two of its subsidiaries, including Inukshuk Internet Inc. The litigation was initiated for, amongst other things, breaches of contract, confidence and fiduciary duties with respect to a signed agreement involving the MCS spectrum.

As a result of a request by Rogers and Bell for Industry Canada to transfer the MCS spectrum out of the companies being litigated against, into a new partnership between Rogers and Bell ("Inukshuk Wireless Partnership"), the MCS spectrum asset under litigation was removed from the Rogers subsidiaries being sued.

This transfer of the MCS spectrum may affect the claim for specific performance in the April 2004 action and accordingly, UBS Wireless filed a new claim in August 2007 requiring the Inukshuk Wireless Partnership (Rogers and Bell) to return the MCS spectrum asset to the Rogers subsidiary under litigation if the Courts find in favour of UBS Wireless' claim in the 2004 litigation.

In May 2008, the Ontario Superior Court of Justice dismissed the claim requiring the Inukshuk Wireless Partnership (Rogers and Bell) to return the MCS spectrum to the Rogers subsidiary.

UBS Wireless continues to pursue its April 2004 litigation against Allstream and Rogers' subsidiaries arising from the breaches of contract, confidence and fiduciary duty.
